Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 12 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Fine and warm for most.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry with long clear periods across many parts. A few fog patches forming in the south. Cloudier for parts of the north, especially the far northwest where some light rain or drizzle is likely.

Sunday:
Plenty of sunshine across most areas. Very warm generally; hot in parts of the south and east. Cooler and cloudier in the far northwest with some rain, perhaps heavy later.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Fine and dry for most at first. The northwest cloudier with rain and strong winds at times. Very warm or hot in the south perhaps with thundery showers by Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.